Contact person

Andreas Huber is Scientific Head of permitto analytics and has been working as a coach, trainer, test developer and publicist for over 20 years.

Numerous training courses, publications, teaching assignments and coaching projects as well as many years as editor and author at Psychologie heute are Andreas' professional foundation.

The focus of his practical work was and is the integrative promotion of motivational-transformative processes of personality development (Next Level Coaching) and competence development (Up Skilling).

Andreas holds a degree in psychology and did his doctorate on the subject of metaphor and action: "The pragmatics of managers' world and human images".

His essentials include collaboration and scientific leadership in the development of the MotivStrukturAnalyse MSA® and the innovative metaprofile® as valid people & culture profit tools for efficient coaching and consulting practice in personality, leadership and organizational development.
