Contact person

Savo Klingen founded the permitto Group in 2007 and is Co-Founder and Managing Partner of permitto analytics. With more than 20 years of experience in management consulting, he advises his clients on change and transformation processes.

His consulting focus includes digital mapping for teams and organizations, the development of change architectures based on these, the monitoring of change processes and the development of customized competency models and feedback systems for managers.

Before founding the permitto Group, Savo spent 15 years in various (management) positions at Deutsche Bank, PricewaterhouseCoopers and Banco Santander Consumer Finance. In his last position, Mr. Klingen was Director Strategy & Organizational Development with international responsibility for Inhouse Consulting.

Special projects included the management of an international post-merger integration project, an outsourcing of information technology, the 5-year change support of ADAC in the context of its crisis of confidence and the cultural analysis at the German Olympic Sports Confederation against the background of its leadership crisis.

After his apprenticeship as a bank clerk, Savo studied business administration at the University of Applied Science in Düsseldorf as part of Deutsche Bank's study program. He holds a degree in business administration and is certified in change management as well as personality, team and organizational diagnostics.
