Dr Alexander Juschus (LL.M.) completed his doctorate at the University of Durham/UK on the subject of investors and good governance. From 2002 to 2005, he was responsible for Institutional Shareholder Services (ISS) in German-speaking countries.

In 2006, he co-founded the voting rights consultant IVOX. In 2015, IVOX GmbH was sold to Glass Lewis, whereupon Alexander was Managing Director of IVOX Glass Lewis until April 2018. He is currently CEO of the registered association StePs - Stewardship Professionals and Chairman of Sports Governance.

In addition, he was Chairman of the Shareholder Rights Committee of the International Corporate Governance Network (ICGN) for six years and is a member of the Governance & Stewardship Commission of the DVFA.

He regularly gives lectures at various universities (including the University of Angers and the University of St. Gallen). Published studies include the topics of corporate governance, stewardship and sports governance.

Alexander was also jointly responsible for the development and adoption of the Sports Governance Code (www.sports-governance-kodex.org).
